THE BOERS WOULD RAID

Would Retaliate If Delagoa Bay Is Closed.

ENGLAND WOULD HATE TO ACT.

London Standard Said Salisbury Would Be Reluctant to Bring Pressure Upon Portugal Except in Case of Urgent Necessity—Other War News.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—A correspondent of The Standard at Lourenço Marques said in part:

"If Delagoa bay is closed the Boers will retaliate by raiding Portuguese territory."

The Standard said:

"Lord Salisbury would be reluctant to bring pressure to bear upon Portugal except in a case of urgent necessity. Great Britain would prefer not to place herself in the invidious position of using force toward another petty country; and there is no temptation to raise any further international questions."

The Standard said that no credit should be given to the rumor from Berlin of a secret Anglo-German-Portuguese treaty for the partition of the colonies of Portugal.

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—Regarding the statement by The Lokal Anzeiger that a secret Anglo-German-Portuguese treaty exists for the division of the Portuguese colonies in South Africa and Asia, a high official declared in part: "There is no objection to stating that the understanding had by Great Britain, Germany and Portugal refers only to Africa and leaves Asia out of the account."

LONDON, Dec. 29.—According to a dispatch received from Ladysmith, dated Wednesday, Dec. 20, the heat then was intense, being 104 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade. There were many cases of enteric fever in the town at that time, but not enough to cause alarm. On the other hand, reports from Boer sources on the continent assert that typhoid fever is epidemic in Ladysmith.

The Modder river correspondent of The Daily Chronicle gave an explanation of a sudden rifle fire inexplicably opened from the Boer trenches. He said:

"The Boers have wires stretched along the ground in front of the trenches and connected with lamps. If a wire be touched a lamp is extinguished, thus giving warning. One night a high wind extinguished a lamp, which resulted in a false alarm. The fire ceased when the Boers discovered that the alarm was false."

A correspondent of The Daily News at Frere camp announced that a tramway is being constructed from the railway to a hill commanding the Boer position; and that along this the British will convey heavy guns.

A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Pietermaritzburg, dated Saturday, Dec. 23, said in part:

"Thanks to the services of continental officers, the character of the campaign has changed. We are no longer fighting a foe who relies upon guerilla tactics, but we have to deal with what is rapidly becoming a disciplined army, enjoying the advantages of knowing the country and of selecting the scene of contest without the burdens of a cumbersome commissariat."

"The Boers have converted the hills near Colenso into fortresses of immense strength. Everywhere they have splendid trenches, many of them bomb proof. Tramway lines permit the shifting of guns with astonishing rapidity. The main positions are connected with the outlying positions by underground passages and the forts proper bristle with machine guns that command the approaches. Probably mines are laid."

"One hears less nowadays about Boer shells not bursting. Observers of the Colenso fight say the Boer shell fire was very effective. This is due largely to the fact that the distances are marked off with white paint."

CAPE TOWN, Dec. 29.—A man named Green, a former sergeant major of the British balloon department, is among the Boer prisoners captured at Magersfontein. He deserted from Aldershot in 1893. He said there were 23,000 Boers at Magersfontein, 21,000 of whom were engaged the day of the battle. The Boer losses, he also asserted, were very heavy, the trenches being full of dead. Green further declared that if the attack had been pressed the Boers would have yielded.

CHIEFVELEY CAMP, Natal, Wednesday,

Dec. 27.—A heavy Boer gun on the whana hill fired steadily upon Ladysmith throughout the morning. Ladysmith did not respond.

The enemy having been again detected attempting to improve their trenches facing General Buller, the British heavy guns opened upon them and the Boers scampered back into the hills. The British patrols sighted the enemy in force on the extreme left. Nine Boers were killed in a skirmish that followed, and six Boer wagons were captured.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The war office received a dispatch from Cape Town, dated Dec. 27, containing the following: "Metnien reports as follows: 'At 9:30 yesterday evening the Boers on the south side of Magersfontein opened a very heavy fire for some time. This morning the naval brigade is reconnoitering in a northeasterly direction. Lieutenant Masters has made an extended reconnaissance westward and northward of Einslein and reports all well. The farmers were glad to see our men. They were suffering from want of food. I have established a market here where I can purchase fresh milk and vegetables, selling to the farmers tea and other articles which they cannot otherwise purchase. Heavy rain fell last night.'"

"Gatacre and French report no change in the situation. Baden-Powell reports all well Dec. 12."

A number of eastern and local manufacturing potters held a meeting in the rooms of the Potters' club this afternoon to confirm the action taken at meetings held a few weeks ago, regarding the price list. Moses' Sons & Co. pottery, of Trenton; William Burgess, of the international pottery, Trenton, and James E. Norris, also of Trenton.

It was expected that an answer to the letter sent the English manufacturers by the American potters some time ago would be read at the meeting but it has not yet been received.

One important matter considered this afternoon was the confirmation of the recent classification of the trade lists. Price lists for jobbers, large and small department stores and the small trade have been made, the discount in each case varying.

I have established a market here where I can purchase fresh milk and vegetables, selling to the farmers tea and other articles which they cannot otherwise purchase. Heavy rain fell last night.'

"Gatacre and French report no change in the situation. Baden-Powell reports all well Dec. 12."

MANUFACTURERS MEET

Are In Session at the Potters' Club This Afternoon

TO CONFIRM CLASSIFICATION

Expected an Answer From the English Manufacturers About Price Combination, but It Has Not Yet Been Received.

A number of eastern and local manufacturing potters held a meeting in the rooms of the Potters' club this afternoon to confirm the action taken at meetings held a few weeks ago, regarding the price list. Among those from out of town who were present at the meeting were: C. W. Franzheim, of the Wheeling Pottery company; Howard B. Moses, of the John B. Moses' Sons & Co. pottery, of Trenton; William Burgess, of the international pottery, Trenton, and James E. Norris, also of Trenton.

It was expected that an answer to the letter sent the English manufacturers by the American potters some time ago would be read at the meeting but it has not yet been received.

One important matter considered this afternoon was the confirmation of the recent classification of the trade lists. Price lists for jobbers, large and small department stores and the small trade have been made, the discount in each case varying.

A VERY CLOSE GAME

Pittsburg Had All They Could Do to Win.

LOCAL BASKET BALL PLAYERS

Put Up a Hot Game and Gave the Visitors a Hard Tussle—It Was a Good Contest and Was Anybody's Game Until the Finish.

The basket ball game at the Young Men's Christian Association between the local team and the all star aggregation of Pittsburg was one of the most interesting contests ever played at the local gym, and while the visitors won the game, yet they did not have anything to spare.

There was a good attendance and when the two clubs made their appearance it was at once noticed that the Pittsburg players were larger and heavier than the local players. In the first half it looked as though Pittsburg would have a walkover as it ended 11 to 4 in their favor.

In the second half the local boys took a decided brace, and the visitors had all they wanted to do to keep from losing. Marple played a professional game, and his work for East Liverpool helped the score considerably. Watkins and Chadwick as usual played splendid basket ball, and it is largely due to their work that Pittsburg didn't score more points. Wallace, as usual, played a fast game, and the passing of Herbert, Chadwick and Watkins puzzled even the visitors. For the visitors Becker, Haddock and Spelker were the stars. The scores were made as follows:

First half—Marple, 1, 2, 1; Haddock, 2, 2, 1, 2, 1, 1; Spelker, 2. Total, East Liverpool, 4; Pittsburg, 11.

Second half—Marple, 2, 2, 1; Wallace, 2; Herbert, 1; Haddock, 1, 2, 1. Total, East Liverpool, 8; Pittsburg, 4. Final score, Pittsburg, 15; East Liverpool, 12.

The lineup of the clubs was as follows:

Work on the new East End station will be commenced in a very short time. Master Mechanic F. R. Martin, of the Cleveland and Pittsburgh company was in the city yesterday and when asked about the East End station said that it would be frame and would be one story and a half high and would be what is known as a class B station or similar to the one at Cook's Ferry. The building will be 16x40 with a 6 foot projection. There will be a waiting room in one end of the station and the freight depot will be in the other end. It will cost in the neighborhood of $2,000. The bids are almost all in and the contracts will be let the first of the year. It will take about 60 days to complete the station.

REVIVAL MEETINGS.

They Will Start In Two East End Churches Next Sunday.

Next Sunday a series of revival meetings will commence in East End, which gives promise of being the best series of meetings of that character ever held in the suburb. All arrangements have been completed.

On Sunday morning at the Second Presbyterian church Evangelist H. H. Ryland, of Pittsburgh, will commence a series of meetings, which will last 10 days. It is probable a watch meeting will be held in this church on Sunday evening, but this event has not been definitely settled upon.

Sunday evening will mark the opening of a revival service in the Second M. E. church that will continue as long as the interest lasts. At any rate, these meetings will continue throughout January and will be in direct charge of Rev. George W. Orcutt. Miss McDowell, of the Cleveland Deaconess' home, has been assigned by that department of the church to work in East End while the revival lasts. When these meetings end services of like character will be held in the Neville institute under the auspices of the Second M. E. church.

WILL CURFMAN PLACED AT NESSLEY CHAPEL.

Bridge at Second Street to be Finished Tomorrow--Heavy Business at Postoffice.

It has been decided to place William Curfman, of Liverpool, in charge of Nessley chapel, near Cumberland, until the next session of the annual Pittsburgh conference of the Methodist Protestant church. The chapel has been without a pastor for several months, and it was decided at the ministerial meeting in Pittsburgh recently to place the chapel in conference's charge for the present. The young man has been a student at Adrian college for some time, and this is his first charge.

M'CONNELL DOESN'T KNOW

McNally, However, Says His Work Will Be Done Very Soon.

Apparently Engineer McConnell is becoming disgusted with the way work on the extension is being done. Yesterday afternoon he was seen and said that he could not see where any headway was being made, and it looked as if he would be on the Virginia side for some weeks. The upper steam shovel is still doing some grading about the Gardner farm and McNally states it will require only a few more days until all the grading is finished.

Receipts Are Heavy.

The business handled at the Chester postoffice during the month just ending has been the heaviest of the year. The foreign mail has not been as heavy as it was during the summer, but this is accounted for by the fact that very few foreigners are now working on that side of the river.

Work Is Half Finished.

About one half of the county road bridge over the railroad extension is completed. It is said an extra force of workmen will be put to work on the bridge next Tuesday. The erecting of the new bridge at Second street will be finished by tomorrow evening.

An Official Here.

William Banfield, of Beaver, was in Chester today attending to some matters connected with the new mill. Manager Oliver Bergman, who has been spending the holidays with relatives in New Kensington, Pa., returned to Chester yesterday.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O. FRIDAY, DEC. 29.

FOR PRESIDENT--Second Term.
WM. M'KINLEY,
Of Ohio.

THE less valuable the advice the more
it's thrown around.

At present the South African war
seems to be chiefly a shell game

THE richest people may not be the happiest but everyone would like to prove it for himself.

It is reported that prisoners are so anxious to get out of Lisbon jail they plead guilty to get away quicker.

THE best monument to General Lawton's memory would be to provide suitably for his widow and family.

THE all important question with Quay nowadays is whether the senate will give him or the plum tree the shake.

THE Alliance papers must have lost all the circulation they had. At least they haven't said a word about it for a week.

A MAN buys 20 boxes of Wheeling stogies, 100 to a box, and smokes them in rotation. He doesn't break into the twentieth box until the 19 other boxes are done--1900 tobies in all. When he opens the twentieth box he smokes the 1901st toby. There's the twentieth century puzzle in a puff.

THE PARDONING POWER.

The pardoning power of this state has been woefully abused and has degenerated into something simply farcical.
Criminals can laugh at conviction of heinous crimes if they but possess a PULL. This is a shameful fact and a disgrace to the commonwealth, and there exists stern necessity for obviating such shameless abuse of power. The mass of intelligent voters and citizens will not always patiently endure such iniquity.

HIT 'EM HARD.

Superintendent Healy, of the street car line, will have the warm thanks of all decent patrons if he makes a mark of the drunken toughs who have been terrorizing and insulting persons who find it necessary to ride to and from Wellsville. Motormen and conductors should be made deputies, with full power to act. Mayor Bough has expressed his willingness to work in concert and conjunction with the street railway officials, and this special class of lawbreakers will be the recipients of such SALTY sentences as will forever
break them of the habit of being too
FRESH in public. Hit 'em hard, gentlemen, and a suffering public will remember the same in your favor. Ruffianism and blackguardism must cease in this neck of woods.

THE HEADY BURGLAR

METHODS HE USES TO PUT THE POLICE ON THE WRONG SCENT.

Two Cases Where Coolness and Presence of Mind Were More Effective Than Fleetness of Foot in Evading the Officers of the Law.

"The crooks of Chicago don't believe in the running game in attempting to escape when caught at work," said a Chicago detective who was in Washington last week. "and I'm rather inclined to believe that they've got the sensible end of it. A man who starts to run away from one or more policemen, no matter whether he is swifter of foot than a deer, is bound to be collared nine times out of ten, whether he makes his dash at midday or in the middle of the night. He has to take the big chance of being headed off by other cops, and he has to take chances on the blind alleys that he's liable to run into. The crook, caught red handed, who keeps longest out of the clutches of the police, is the man who uses his head and who doesn't run. To illustrate:

"A few months ago a well known Chicago housebreaker, who has put in numerous hefty stretches at Joliet, decided to crack a crib on Prairie avenue, one of the swaggar houses of the town. He found that the whole family occupying the house were going to the theater on a certain night, and he figured on all of the servants remaining below stairs after the family's departure. He made a second story job of it, climbing up a porch, and he got in without a bit of trouble. It was really something easy, and the fellow simply got pockets full of jewelry. The thing was passing off beautifully when a maidservant walked in on him while he was ransacking the drawers in one of the ladies' boudoirs. She let out a scream and went a-kiting down the steps to where the menservants were. The crook sloped for the front door on the second floor and slipped down the same porch stanchion that he had used in climbing up. He was pretty quick, and he was a couple of doors away, on the sidewalk, before a lot of servants burst out of the house and began to yell for the police.

Now, if that crook had started to run there is no manner of doubt that he would have been headed off, and he would have stood more than an even chance of being shot into the bargain—if not by a cop, then by some citizen or other, for since the reign of footpad terror in Chicago a few years ago a majority of the citizens who stay out late o' nights pack guns around with them. Well, this thief didn't do any running stunt at all. There was an undertaker's wagon standing in front of a house about five doors away from the one he had robbed. No one was in the wagon. The crook saw his chance. He stepped aboard the wagon in a leisurely manner, gave a cluck to the horse and started to drive off at a lazy trot just as a couple of officers charged around the corner. He pulled the wagon up to talk to the cops.

"I guess somebody's been killed down in that house, the way they're yellin'," he said to the cops.

"Have you seen any one running by here?" the policeman asked him.

"Well, just as I hopped aboard the wagon there was a duck chased out of that house and screwed down the other way," replied the thief, and the policemen took up their lope and started for the robbed house. The thief drove down Prairie avenue with all the leisure in life. He abandoned the wagon after going a mile, and took a down town car. I nailed him a couple of months later when he was drunk, on suspicion of having a hand in a certain job, and he was boastful enough to own up to it and to tell me how he'd got away on the occasion I've told you about.

"Still more recently there was another well known Chicago second story man caught in the act of going through a house on one of the prominent boulevards. The butler came in on him, and he punched the butler a swift one and backheeled him. Then he walked swiftly out of the house and down the steps, a number of the other servants meantime appearing at the basement door and howling. Down in the next block a big gang of all night men were engaged in putting in new sewer pipes. The crook didn't take up any sprint, but he just made for the scene of the sewer pipe operations at a good walking clip. He was got up pretty roughly, and he jumped into the first ditch he came to, after having caught up a pick that was lying on the brink, and started in to work.

"There was a Swede in the pit there with him, but the Swede had the proper Scandinavian stolidity, and he didn't pay any attention to his new digging companion. The crook pried his pick there for an hour, while cops plowed around all over the street looking for the robber. When the excitement had all died down, he dropped his pick and stole silently away. There was rum in this one's head, too, when one of my sleuth pals got him, and he told chestily of the neat way he had given the cops the slip. So many of the Chicago crooks are adopting similar tactics nowadays that it is rare for a Chicago policeman to get a run for his money, in the half literal sense."—Washington Star.

James Whitcomb Riley's Joke.

James Whitcomb Riley and Nye were a peculiar pair. They were everlastingly playing practical jokes.

I remember when we were riding together in the smoking compartment between Columbus and Cincinnati. Mr. Nye was a great smoker, and Mr. Riley did not dislike tobacco. An old farmer came over to Mr. Nye and said:

"Are you Mr. Riley? I heard you was on the train."

"No, I'm Mr. Riley. He is over there."

"I'm Mr. Nye, and I would like to speak to you."

"I'm Mr. Riley, yes. But he is dead, and I want to speak loud."

So the old farmer went over to him and said in a loud voice:

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"Er—what?"

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"What did you say?"

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"Riley, yes."

"I knew your father."

"No bother."

"I knew your father."

"What?"

"I knew your father."

"Oh, so did I!"

And in a few moments the farmer heard him talking in an ordinary tone of voice.—Saturday Evening Post.

Two Ladies of Fashion Meet.

A family living in a North Side flat welcomed a new housemaid last week. The girl had just come from Michigan, and her appearance was prepossessing. Soon after her advent it was discovered that she was inclined to treat the family with a patronizing air.

"Mary, you must do better, or I shall have to find some one to take your place," the mistress remarked the other morning.

"I don't allow any one to speak to me that way," replied Mary, with a toss of her head. "I'm just as good as you are, and I want you to know it."

Mary flounced out of the room and returned in two minutes with the weekly paper from her town. Among the social items was the following:

"Miss Mary Hanson has gone to Chicago to spend the winter. Miss Hanson is an acknowledged belle in the leading circles of Sawdust Creek."

Mary waited until her employer had had time to read the "personal," and then she said with withering scorn:

"As I have always been accustomed to going with the best in my town and as I don't believe you ever have your name on the society page of the Sunday papers I guess I can't afford to stay with you."

The North Side woman declared the domestic incident closed.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

English Officers Wear Armor.

Many officers of the British army are wearers of armor. As a general rule the mail is inclosed in a leather casing, which is sewed inside the tunic, so as to be invisible unless the garment is picked to pieces. And the same with helmets—a similar device is fixed in the lining, so as to give additional protection in case of need. Some officers are not above wearing mail vests underneath their tunics and perfectly oblivious of their comrades, who, although they may scoff in times of peace, would only be too glad to don one themselves when in the middle of hostilities. The majority of the maker's customers are officers, because the suits are very expensive, costing about 10 guineas each.—Regiment.

A Unique Notice.

The following is a copy of a unique notice affixed to the church door at Whitechurch, London: "Missing, last Sunday, some families from church. Stolen, several hours from the Lord's day, by a number of people of different ages, dressed in their Sunday clothes."

The Persians in 516 B. C. invented a transparent glass varnish, which they laid over sculptured rocks to preserve them from bad weather. This coating has lasted to our day, while the rocks beneath are honeycombed.

WHY SHE RESIGNED.

The Member of a Woman's Club Founded the Two Papes.

"For the last year or so my wife has been ambitious to shine as a literary light," said Smith, with a chuckle. "I don't know how many clubs she joined, but if there were any that she did not belong to it was because she had never heard of them."

"The other night while I was reading my paper she interrupted me with a request for light about something that I did not catch except the word pope."

"Well," said I, looking over my paper.

"I want to know about him," she continued. "I must read a paper concerning him at our next literary meeting, and I do not know a single thing about him. Who is he?"

"Oh, of course," she answered. "How stupid of me! I can read all about him in the encyclopedia."

"I resumed my reading and thought that ended it, but it didn't. The other night when I returned home I found my wife in tears, and before I had time to inquire what the matter was I was called to account in 17 different kinds of keys."

"Well, when the storm was over I learned the truth. It was the poet Pope and not the pope of Rome that she was expected to treat upon, and when she rose and read a paper on the pope it started a row that did not end with adjournment."

"But, seeing that she has resigned from all the clubs and that the children once more have a chance to get acquainted with their mother, I do not look upon it as a calamity."—Detroit Free Press.

Unique Way of Identification.

The Saunterer happened to be in a prominent bank, where he saw an identification effected in the most unique way yet heard of. A young railroad man came hurrying in with a check to cash. He was not known in the bank except by one man, and he, of course, was out.

"Well, here's my railroad pass," said he, producing the transportation card made out in his name. "Will this do?"

The cashier took it and compared the indorsement on the back with the writing on the pass.

"That won't do you any good," said the owner. "All our passes are made out before we get them."

"I guess it's all right," said the cashier hesitatingly. "Haven't you something else?"

"Well," was the answer after a moment's thought. "I've got an itemized dentist's bill in my pocket, and you can compare it with the fillings in my teeth," and he displayed the latter in a broad grin, which secured for him the money.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Made His Bed.

On returning from the barn early one morning the old man found his wife in tears.

"Wha'cher cryin about, Melissy?" he inquired.

"'Nother—one—uv our darters—was stole las' night," she sobbed.

"The redheaded un?" he asked laconically.

"Yes—pore Mag—she was the best gal—"

"Bob Scuttles?"

"Uv course. Hasn't been no other feller waitin on her. Ain't you goin to pursue after 'em an arrest 'im?"

"Uv course not," he replied sternly.

"I'm not under obligations to help Bob Scuttles out uv no difficulty. Let him go ahead and work out his sentence, same's I've been a-doin fur the las' 40 year."—New York Truth.

A "Knock-turn."

When J. A. MacNeill Whistler lived in Chelsea, his peculiarities soon made him a familiar figure even among the bargemen, who go to know him as the artist of their beloved Thames. One afternoon, while sauntering along the embankment, Whistler was confronted by a man who had one eye most effectively blackened. The artist stopped and inquired, "What's the matter my good fellow?" The man touched his hat. "Oh, nothing, sir—merely a knock-turn in blue and green!"—San Francisco Wave.

The Persians in 516 B. C. invented a transparent glass varnish, which they laid over sculptured rocks to preserve them from bad weather. This coating has lasted to our day, while the rocks beneath are honeycombed.

THE HEADY BURGLAR

METHODS HE USES TO PUT THE POLICE ON THE WRONG SCENT.

Two Cases Where Coolness and Presence of Mind Were More Effective Than Fleetness of Foot in Evading the Officers of the Law.

"The crooks of Chicago don't believe in the running game in attempting to escape when caught at work," said a Chicago detective who was in Washington last week, "and I'm rather inclined to believe that they've got the sensible end of it. A man who starts to run away from one or more policemen, no matter whether he is swifter of foot than a deer, is bound to be collared nine times out of ten, whether he makes his dash at midday or in the middle of the night. He has to take the big chance of being headed off by other cops, and he has to take chances on the blind alleys that he's liable to run into. The crook, caught red-handed, who keeps longest out of the clutches of the police, is the man who uses his head and who doesn't run. To illustrate:

"A few months ago a well known Chicago housebreaker, who has put in numerous hefty stretches at Joliet, decided to crack a crib on Prairie avenue, one of the swagger houses of the town. He found that the whole family occupying the house were going to the theater on a certain night, and he figured on all of the servants remaining below stairs after the family's departure. He made a second story job of it, climbing up a porch, and he got in without a bit of trouble. It was really something easy, and the fellow simply got pockets full of jewelry. The thing was passing off beautifully when a maidservant walked in on him while he was ransacking the drawers in one of the ladies' boudoirs. She let out a scream and went a-kiting down the steps to where the menservants were. The crook sloped for the front door on the second floor and slipped down the same porch stanchion that he had used in climbing up. He was pretty quick, and he was a couple of doors away, on the sidewalk, before a lot of servants burst out of the house and began to yell for the police.

Now, if that crook had started to run there is no manner of doubt that he would have been headed off, and he would have stood more than an even chance of being shot into the bargain—if not by a cop, then by some citizen or other, for since the reign of footpad terror in Chicago a few years ago a majority of the citizens who stay out late o' nights pack guns around with them. Well, this thief didn't do any running stunt at all. There was an undertaker's wagon standing in front of a house about five doors away from the one he had robbed. No one was in the wagon. The crook saw his chance. He stepped aboard the wagon in a leisurely manner, gave a cluck to the horse and started to drive off at a lazy trot just as a couple of officers charged around the corner. He pulled the wagon up to talk to the cops.

"I guess somebody's been killed down in that house, the way they're yellin'," he said to the cops.

"Have you seen any one running by here?" the policeman asked him.

"Well, just as I hopped aboard the wagon there was a duck chased out of that house and screwed down the other way," replied the thief, and the policemen took up their lope and started for the robbed house. The thief drove down Prairie avenue with all the leisure in life. He abandoned the wagon after going a mile, and took a down town car. I nailed him a couple of months later when he was drunk, on suspicion of having a hand in a certain job, and he was boastful enough to own up to it and to tell me how he'd got away on the occasion I've told you about.

"Still more recently there was another well known Chicago second story man caught in the act of going through a house on one of the prominent boulevards. The butler came in on him, and he punched the butler a swift one and backheeled him. Then he walked swiftly out of the house and down the steps, a number of the other servants meantime appearing at the basement door and howling. Down in the next block a big gang of all night men were engaged in putting in new sewer pipes. The crook didn't take up any sprint, but he just made for the scene of the sewer pipe operations at a good walking clip. He was got up pretty roughly, and he jumped into the first ditch he came to, after having caught up a pick that was lying on the brink, and started in to work.

"There was a Swede in the pit there with him, but the Swede had the proper Scandinavian stolidity, and he didn't pay any attention to his new digging companion. The crook pried his pick there for an hour, while cops ployed around all over the street looking for the robber. When the excitement had all died down, he dropped his pick and stole silently away. There was rum in this one's head, too, when one of my sleuth pals got him, and he told chestily of the neat way he had given the cops the slip. So many of the Chicago crooks are adopting similar tactics nowadays that it is rare for a Chicago policeman to get a run for his money, in the half literal sense."—Washington Star.

James Whitcomb Riley's Joke.
James Whitcomb Riley and Nye were a peculiar pair. They were everlastingly playing practical jokes.

I remember when we were riding together in the smoking compartment between Columbus and Cincinnati. Mr. Nye was a great smoker, and Mr. Riley did not dislike tobacco. An old farmer came over to Mr. Nye and said:

"Are you Mr. Riley? I heard you was on the train."

"No, I'm Mr. Riley. He is over there."

"I'm Mr. Nye, and I would like to speak to you."

"I don't know him, yes. But he is dead, and I want to speak loud."

So he went over to him and said in a loud voice:

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"Er—what?"

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"What did you say?"

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"Riley, yes."

"I knew your father."

"No bother."

"I knew your father."

"What?"

"I knew your father."

"Oh, so did I!"

And in a few moments the farmer heard him talking in an ordinary tone of voice. —Saturday Evening Post.

Two Ladies of Fashion Meet.

A family living in a North Side flat welcomed a new housemaid last week. The girl had just come from Michigan, and her appearance was prepossessing. Soon after her advent it was discovered that she was inclined to treat the family with a patronizing air.

"Mary, you must do better, or I shall have to find some one to take your place," the mistress remarked the other morning.

"I don't allow any one to speak to me that way," replied Mary, with a toss of her head. "I'm just as good as you are, and I want you to know it."

Mary flounced out of the room and returned in two minutes with the weekly paper from her town. Among the social items was the following:

"Miss Mary Hanson has gone to Chicago to spend the winter. Miss Hanson is an acknowledged belle in the leading circles of Sawdust Creek."

Mary waited until her employer had had time to read the "personal," and then she said with withering scorn:

"As I have always been accustomed to going with the best in my town and as I don't believe you ever have your name on the society page of the Sunday papers I guess I can't afford to stay with you."

The North Side woman declared the domestic incident closed. —Chicago Inter Ocean.

English Officers Wear Armor.

Many officers of the British army are wearers of armor. As a general rule the mail is inclosed in a leather casing, which is sewed inside the tunic, so as to be invisible unless the garment is picked to pieces. And the same with helmets—a similar device is fixed in the lining, so as to give additional protection in case of need. Some officers are not above wearing mail vests underneath their tunics and perfectly oblivious of their comrades, who, although they may scoff in times of peace, would only be too glad to don one themselves when in the middle of hostilities. The majority of the maker's customers are officers, because the suits are very expensive, costing about 10 guineas each. —Regiment.

A Unique Notice.

The following is a copy of a unique notice affixed to the church door at Whitechurch, London: "Missing, last Sunday, some families from church. Stolen, several hours from the Lord's day, by a number of people of different ages, dressed in their Sunday clothes."

"Miss Mary Hanson has gone to Chicago to spend the winter. Miss Hanson is an acknowledged belle in the leading circles of Sawdust Creek."

Mary waited until her employer had had time to read the "personal," and then she said with withering scorn:

"As I have always been accustomed to going with the best in my town and as I don't believe you ever have your name on the society page of the Sunday papers I guess I can't afford to stay with you."

The North Side woman declared the domestic incident closed.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

English Officers Wear Armor.

Many officers of the British army are wearers of armor. As a general rule the mail is inclosed in a leather casing, which is sewed inside the tunic, so as to be invisible unless the garment is picked to pieces. And the same with helmets—a similar device is fixed in the lining, so as to give additional protection in case of need. Some officers are not above wearing mail vests underneath their tunics and perfectly oblivious of their comrades, who, although they may scoff in times of peace, would only be too glad to don one themselves when in the middle of hostilities. The majority of the maker's customers are officers, because the suits are very expensive, costing about 10 guineas each.—Regiment.

A Unique Notice.

The following is a copy of a unique notice affixed to the church door at Whitechurch, London: "Missing, last Sunday, some families from church. Stolen, several hours from the Lord's day, by a number of people of different ages, dressed in their Sunday clothes."

WHY SHE RESIGNED.

The Member of a Woman's Club Founded the Two Popes.

"For the last year or so my wife has been ambitious to shine as a literary light," said Smith, with a chuckle. "I don't know how many clubs she joined, but if there were any that she did not belong to it was because she had never heard of them."

"The other night while I was reading my paper she interrupted me with a request for light about something that I did not catch except the word pope."

"Well," said I, looking over my paper.

"I want to know about him," she continued. "I must read a paper concerning him at our next literary meeting, and I do not know a single thing about him. Who is he?"

"Oh, of course!" she answered. "How stupid of me! I can read all about him in the encyclopedia."

"I resumed my reading and thought that ended it, but it didn't. The other night when I returned home I found my wife in tears, and before I had time to inquire what the matter was I was called to account in 17 different kinds of keys."

"Well, when the storm was over I learned the truth. It was the poet Pope and not the pope of Rome that she was expected to treat upon, and when she rose and read a paper on the pope it started a row that did not end with adjournment."

"But, seeing that she has resigned from all the clubs and that the children once more have a chance to get acquainted with their mother, I do not look upon it as a calamity."—Detroit Free Press.

Unique Way of Identification.

The Saunterer happened to be in a prominent bank, where he saw an identification effected in the most unique way yet heard of. A young railroad man came hurrying in with a check to cash. He was not known in the bank except by one man, and he, of course, was out.

"Well, here's my railroad pass," said he, producing the transportation card made out in his name. "Will this do?"

The cashier took it and compared the indorsement on the back with the writing on the pass.

"That won't do you any good," said the owner. "All our passes are made out before we get them."

"I guess it's all right," said the cashier hesitatingly. "Haven't you something else?"

"Well," was the answer after a moment's thought. "I've got an itemized dentist's bill in my pocket, and you can compare it with the fillings in my teeth," and he displayed the latter in a broad grin, which secured for him the money.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Made His Bed.

On returning from the barn early one morning the old man found his wife in tears.

"Wha'cher cryin' about, Melissy?" he inquired.

"'Nother—one—uv our darters—was stole las' night," she sobbed.

"The redheaded un?" he asked ironically.

"Yes—pore Mag—she was the best gal—"

"Bob Scuttles?"

"Uv course. Hasn't been no other feller waitin' on her. Ain't you goin' to pursue after 'em an arrest 'im?"

"Uv course not," he replied sternly. "I'm not under obligations to help Bob Scuttles out uv no difficulty. Let him go ahead and work out his sentence, same's I've been a-doin' fur the las' 40 year."—New York Truth.

A "Knock-turn."

When J. A. MacNeill Whistler lived in Chelsea, his peculiarities soon made him a familiar figure even among the bargemen, who got to know him as the artist of their beloved Thames. One afternoon, while sauntering along the embankment, Whistler was confronted by a man who had one eye most effectively blackened. The artist stopped and inquired, "What's the matter my good fellow?" The man touched his hat. "Oh, nothing, sir—merely a knock-turn in blue and green!"—San Francisco Wave.

The Persians in 516 B. C. invented a transparent glass varnish, which they laid over sculptured rocks to preserve them from bad weather. This coating has lasted to our day, while the rocks beneath are honeycombed.

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others?

The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours and union labor employed.

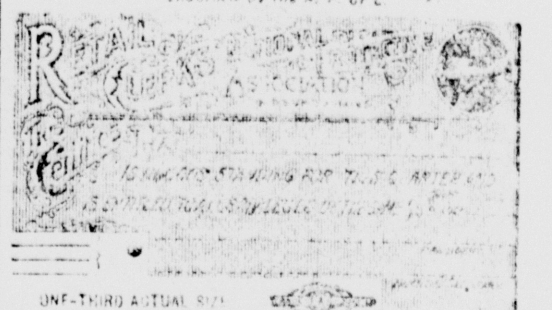

UNION PAPERS.

All Union papers of East Liverpool are down to the various craft and unions of the city by the printing of the above Union Labels at the head of their columns.

PELTING THE EARTH.

A CONSTANT SHOWER OF METEORS INTO OUR ATMOSPHERE.

Some of the Larger Ones Which Reached the Earth Unconsumed. Fragment of a Comet's Tail—The Intense Cold of Space Felt by Man.

The atmosphere forms an armor which is almost impenetrable to the meteors that are constantly pelting the earth. About 2,000 of these wanderers in space hit our atmosphere every 24 hours. Most of the meteors are small. They come rushing through space, strike the atmosphere, and the friction against the molecules of air heats them to a white heat and sets them ablaze. Sometimes, part of one may reach the earth; but, as a rule, they are consumed, and the dust alone, cosmic dust, drops upon the surface.

One of the earliest known meteors fell in 204 B. C. in Phrygia, where for a long time it was worshiped. It was carried to Rome and was supposed to be a messenger from the gods. Livy describes a shower of meteoric stones. The people were greatly alarmed, and the senators were demoralized and declared a nine days' festival to propitiate the gods. There is at Mecca a meteorite which fell in 600 A. D. and is still worshiped by the faithful.

In Chinese literature there is mention of meteors which fell in 644 B. C. The oldest known meteorite which was seen to fall is now on exhibition at Ensisheim, Alsace, Germany. In 1492 it came crashing down through the air with a roar that prostrated the peasantry with fright. It buried itself deeply in the earth. It weighed 260 pounds and hangs today in the parish church.

The Chupaderos meteorite, which weighed 25 tons, fell in Chihuahua, Mexico. The largest meteorite known is the Peary stone, which weighs approximately 100 tons. The stone of Canon Diablo weighs at least ten tons and exploded high in air, the pieces being found all over the surrounding country. In Italy several instances are known of the loss of life from meteorites. A peasant was sitting in his cabin and was killed by an iron mass that crashed through the roof. The act was regarded as a visitation of divine anger.

The city of Milan is perhaps the only one that has been struck by a meteorite. A meteorite of several pounds' weight fell in the heart of that city in the year 1660, on the authority of Paolo Maria Tezzayo, and struck a Franciscan monk.

More remarkable are the falls at sea. That a ship should be struck would seem an extraordinary chance, yet a Swedish ship was so struck, the stone killing two of the crew. On Dec. 1, 1896, the ship Walkamning was sailing from New York to Bremen when her officers noticed a brilliant meteor that appeared to be bearing down on the vessel from southeast to northwest. It passed with a loud roar and hissing sound and plunged into the sea ahead of the ship. That it was a meteor of large size was evident, for a few minutes later the ship was struck by a tidal wave.

Even more remarkable was the experience of the British ship Cawdor, which reached San Francisco Nov. 20, 1897. During a severe storm a large and brilliant meteor was observed rushing down upon the ship, and with a roar and filling the air with fumes of sulphur it passed between the masts of the ship and fell into the sea not far from the rail.

One of the greatest curiosities possessed by man today is a supposed fragment of a comet in Mazapil, Mexico. The fragment is believed to be a part of the tail of Biela's comet. In 1846 something happened in space. A wreck occurred. Biela's comet may have collided with another comet. In any case, the comet divided, and many living observers remember seeing the two parts gradually separating.

Some fatality pursued one part of the comet, and it met its fate in infinite space, literally went to pieces and became a wreck upon the shoreless sea of space. Astronomers predicted that if the comet itself did not appear in 1872 its wreckage would become visible as shooting stars, and this prediction was realized apparently, as on Nov. 27, 1872, there burst from the heavens a cloud of shooting stars. During the display one piece dropped upon the earth and was secured at Mazapil, Mexico, and was declared to be a part of the great comet. The average meteorite immediately after its fall is intensely hot, but at least one, which was handled immediately after falling, still held the intense cold of space. A few men can say that they have experienced this. A meteorite exploded above Dhurnala, Kangra and Punjab, India, in 1860, and a section was picked up immediately by some natives, who dropped it with expressions of pain. The explosion had exposed the interior of the meteor, which had been chilled by the intense cold of space and was so cold that its effect was like a burn. This fragment is now to be seen in the Field museum. Of it Dr. Farington, the curator, said, "This is perhaps the only instance known where the cold of space has become perceptible to human senses."—New York Sun.

WOMEN OPPOSE WOMEN.

The State of Affairs Said to Exist in the Government Service.

"Why is it that women are practically debarred from receiving promotions to the higher places in the government service?" asked a government clerk of a quarter of a century's experience. The question was put to several ladies in the treasury department. Before any one of them had time to reply the questioner proceeded to answer his own interrogatory.

"It is because they are held back by members of their own sex," he said. "Some time ago a lady in one division I know of was so favorably regarded that she would have been made chief of that division, but as soon as her prospects became known her fellow clerks of the same sex became indignant and united in a protest. They declared that they could never work under her; that they would a thousand times rather have a man than a woman to 'boss' them. They wouldn't allow her to 'lord it over them.'"

"That is only a sample of many cases. Women can be depended upon to antagonize women under such circumstances. Not only did they do so in the case I have cited, but they actually gave the marble heart and the icy hand to this woman after they defeated her prospects of a promotion. I am satisfied that one of the most influential obstacles to women in their effort to secure equal recognition with men comes from their own sex."

The man who asked and answered the question then moved off before his audience of lady clerks had an opportunity to reply to his assertions.—Washington Star.

The Laugh on the General.

The late General Clinton B. Fisk was once addressing a Sunday school convention. One of the speakers had reminded the children that it was Washington's birthday.

"Children," said General Fisk, "you all know that Washington was a general. Perhaps you know that I am also a general. Now, can any one tell what was the difference between General Washington and myself?"

"I know, sir," replied a small boy in the back part of the room.

"Well, what was the difference?" said General Fisk, smiling at the lad's eagerness.

"George Washington couldn't tell a lie, sir!" cried the boy in exultant tones. Shouts of laughter followed, in which the general joined heartily.—Detroit News.

A Candle Trick.

Let a candle burn until it has a good long snuff; then blow it out with a sudden puff. A bright wreath of white smoke will curl up from the hot wick. Now, if a flame be applied to this smoke, even at a distance of two or three inches from the candle, the flame will run down the smoke and rekindle the wick in a very fantastic manner. To perform this ceremony nicely there must be no draft or "banging" doors while the mystic spell is rising.

Two Towers.

Students of architecture may have often wondered why the two towers of Notre Dame at Paris were not of the same size. It appears that when the cathedral was built it was the cathedral of a suffragan bishop, who was not entitled to two towers of equal height, and for centuries the bishop of Paris was suffragan to the bishop of Sens.

WOOLGROWERS NEED NOT FLAR.

Asserted Argentine Convention Won't Injure Their Interests.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—An official statement of facts respecting the Argentine convention was given out for public information and to correct misapprehensions in respect to the effect of the treaty on the wool interest. It said in part:

The Argentine government demanded reciprocal concessions on the few articles she sends to this market. Among these was wool, and the American woolgrowers have expressed fears that this would prove injurious to the domestic interest. The total import of wool in United States for 1899 from all countries was 76,736,000 pounds. Of this from the Argentine came only 7,957,000 pounds, which is a very small portion of our aggregate importation. It appears that our woolen factories require, notwithstanding high duties, a certain amount of foreign wool to supplement the domestic product. There is no proposal for any reduction of wool duties in favor of any other country.

It is evident that the proposed reduction for Argentine wools alone can have no effect on our market prices. The majority of the wool is of the coarsest class (for carpets, etc.), which is not at all or but little supplied by this country. If other countries imposed the same high duties with ourselves upon raw wools imported for manufacture this reduction of duty would turn the tide of wool supply to the United States. But other nations have adopted the policy of free admission of wool. Consequently, the Argentine wool seeks the European free markets, France, Germany, Belgium, Great Britain, Italy, etc., and will continue to do so.

I welcome Suitor.

"It is because they are held back by members of their own sex," he said. "Some time ago a lady in one division I know of was so favorably regarded that she would have been made chief of that division, but as soon as her prospects became known her fellow clerks of the same sex became indignant and united in a protest. They declared that they could never work under her; that they would a thousand times rather have a man than a woman to 'boss' them. They wouldn't allow her to 'lord it over them.'"

"That is only a sample of many cases. Women can be depended upon to antagonize women under such circumstances. Not only did they do so in the case I have cited, but they actually gave the marble heart and the icy hand to this woman after they defeated her prospects of a promotion. I am satisfied that one of the most influential obstacles to women in their effort to secure equal recognition with men comes from their own sex."

The man who asked and answered the question then moved off before his audience of lady clerks had an opportunity to reply to his assertions.—Washington Star.

The Laugh on the General.

The late General Clinton B. Fisk was once addressing a Sunday school convention. One of the speakers had reminded the children that it was Washington's birthday.

"Children," said General Fisk, "you all know that Washington was a general. Perhaps you know that I am also a general. Now, can any one tell what was the difference between General Washington and myself?"

"I know, sir," replied a small boy in the back part of the room.

"Well, what was the difference?" said General Fisk, smiling at the lad's eagerness.

"George Washington couldn't tell a lie, sir!" cried the boy in exultant tones. Shouts of laughter followed, in which the general joined heartily.—Detroit News.

A Candle Trick.

Let a candle burn until it has a good long snuff; then blow it out with a sudden puff. A bright wreath of white smoke will curl up from the hot wick. Now, if a flame be applied to this smoke, even at a distance of two or three inches from the candle, the flame will run down the smoke and rekindle the wick in a very fantastic manner. To perform this ceremony nicely there must be no draft or "banging" doors while the mystic spell is rising.

Two Towers.

Students of architecture may have often wondered why the two towers of Notre Dame at Paris were not of the same size. It appears that when the cathedral was built it was the cathedral of a suffragan bishop, who was not entitled to two towers of equal height, and for centuries the bishop of Paris was suffragan to the bishop of Sens.

WOOLGROWERS NEED NOT FLAR.

Asserted Argentine Convention Won't Injure Their Interests.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—An official statement of facts respecting the Argentine convention was given out for public information and to correct misapprehensions in respect to the effect of the treaty on the wool interest. It said in part:

The total import of wool in United States for 1899 from all countries was 76,736,000 pounds. Of this from the Argentine came only 7,357,000 pounds, which is a very small portion of our aggregate importation. It appears that our woolen factories require, notwithstanding high duties, a certain amount of foreign wool to supplement the domestic product. There is no proposal for any reduction of wool duties in favor of any other country.

It is evident that the proposed reduction for Argentine wools alone can have no effect on our market prices. The majority of the wool is of the coarsest class (for carpets, etc.), which is not at all or but little supplied by this country. If other countries imposed the same high duties with our elves upon raw wools imported for manufacture this reduction of duty would turn the tide of wool supply to the United States. But other nations have adopted the policy of free admission of wool. Consequently, the Argentine wool seeks the European free markets, France, Germany, Belgium, Great Britain, Italy, etc., and will continue to do so.

PELTING THE EARTH.

A CONSTANT SHOWER OF METEORS INTO OUR ATMOSPHERE.

Some of the Larger Ones Which Reached the Earth Unconsumed. Fragment of a Comet's Tail—The Intense Cold of Space Felt by Man.

The atmosphere forms an armor which is almost impenetrable to the meteors that are constantly pelting the earth. About 2,000 of these wanderers in space hit our atmosphere every 24 hours. Most of the meteors are small. They come rushing through space, strike the atmosphere, and the friction against the molecules of air heats them to a white heat and sets them ablaze. Sometimes, part of one may reach the earth; but, as a rule, they are consumed, and the dust alone, cosmic dust, drops upon the surface.

One of the earliest known meteors fell in 204 B. C. in Phrygia, where for a long time it was worshiped. It was carried to Rome and was supposed to be a messenger from the gods. Livy describes a shower of meteoric stones. The people were greatly alarmed, and the senators were demoralized and declared a nine days' festival to propitiate the gods. There is at Mecca a meteorite which fell in 600 A. D. and is still worshiped by the faithful.

In Chinese literature there is mention of meteors which fell in 644 B. C. The oldest known meteorite which was seen to fall is now on exhibition at Ensisheim, Alsace, Germany. In 1492 it came crashing down through the air with a roar that prostrated the peasantry with fright. It buried itself deeply in the earth. It weighed 260 pounds and hangs today in the parish church.

The Chupaderos meteorite, which weighed 25 tons, fell in Chihuahua, Mexico. The largest meteorite known is the Peary stone, which weighs approximately 100 tons. The stone of Canon Diablo weighs at least ten tons and exploded high in air, the pieces being found all over the surrounding country. In Italy several instances are known of the loss of life from meteorites. A peasant was sitting in his cabin and was killed by an iron mass that crashed through the roof. The act was regarded as a visitation of divine anger.

The city of Milan is perhaps the only one that has been struck by a meteorite. A meteorite of several pounds' weight fell in the heart of that city in the year 1690, on the authority of Paolo Maria Tezzayo, and struck a Franciscan monk.

More remarkable are the falls at sea. That a ship should be struck would seem an extraordinary chance, yet a Swedish ship was so struck, the stone killing two of the crew. On Dec. 1, 1896, the ship Walkamming was sailing from New York to Bremen when her officers noticed a brilliant meteor that appeared to be bearing down on the vessel from southeast to northwest. It passed with a loud roar and hissing sound and plunged into the sea ahead of the ship. That it was a meteor of large size was evident, for a few minutes later the ship was struck by a tidal wave.

Even more remarkable was the experience of the British ship Cawdor, which reached San Francisco Nov. 29, 1897. During a severe storm a large and brilliant meteor was observed rushing down upon the ship, and with a roar and filling the air with fumes of sulphur it passed between the masts of the ship and fell into the sea not far from the rail.

One of the greatest curiosities possessed by man today is a supposed fragment of a comet in Mazapil, Mexico. The fragment is believed to be a part of the tail of Biela's comet. In 1846 something happened in space. A wreck occurred. Biela's comet may have collided with another comet. In any case, the comet divided, and many living observers remember seeing the two parts gradually separating.

Some fatality pursued one part of the comet, and it met its fate in infinite space, literally went to pieces and became a wreck upon the shoreless sea of space. Astronomers predicted that if the comet itself did not appear in 1872 its wreckage would become visible as shooting stars, and this prediction was realized apparently, as on Nov. 27, 1872, there burst from the heavens a cloud of shooting stars. During the display one piece dropped upon the earth and was secured at Mazapil, Mexico, and was declared to be a part of the great comet.

The average meteorite immediately

after its fall is intensely hot, but at least one, which was handled immediately after falling, still held the intense cold of space. A few men can say that they have experienced this. A meteorite exploded above Dhurmsala, Kangra and Punjab, India, in 1860, and a section was picked up immediately by some natives, who dropped it with expressions of pain. The explosion had exposed the interior of the meteor, which had been chilled by the intense cold of space and was so cold that its effect was like a burn. This fragment is now to be seen in the Field museum. Of it Dr. Farington, the curator, said, "This is perhaps the only instance known where the cold of space has become perceptible to human senses."—New York Sun.

WOMEN OPPOSE WOMEN.

The State of Affairs Said to Exist in the Government Service.

"Why is it that women are practically debarred from receiving promotions to the higher places in the government service?" asked a government clerk of a quarter of a century's experience. The question was put to several ladies in the treasury department. Before any one of them had time to reply the questioner proceeded to answer his own interrogatory.

"It is because they are held back by members of their own sex," he said. "Some time ago a lady in one division I know of was so favorably regarded that she would have been made chief of that division, but as soon as her prospects became known her fellow clerks of the same sex became indignant and united in a protest. They declared that they could never work under her; that they would a thousand times rather have a man than a woman to 'boss' them. They wouldn't allow her to 'lord it over them.'"

"That is only a sample of many cases. Women can be depended upon to antagonize women under such circumstances. Not only did they do so in the case I have cited, but they actually gave the marble heart and the icy hand to this woman after they defeated her prospects of a promotion. I am satisfied that one of the most influential obstacles to women in their effort to secure equal recognition with men comes from their own sex."

The man who asked and answered the question then moved off before his audience of lady clerks had an opportunity to reply to his assertions.—Washington Star.

CONSUL MACRUM

IS NOT COMING HOME BY WAY OF ENGLAND.

Will Arrive in New York About January 29—Tayler Has No News.

Consul Macrum is not coming home by way of England. The steamer on which he is sailing, is one of a German line, from Lorenzo Marques, Delagoa bay, to Naples and thence direct to New York. He is due in New York about January 29.

The report that Congressman Tayler had received an explanatory letter from Macrum is untrue. He has not received any communication from the consul since war began.

A London dispatch says there is much interest there in Macrum's return, and adds: "Consul Macrum lived very modestly in Pretoria and was very intimate with Mr. Reitz, secretary of state of the Transvaal. Reitz may have sent by Macrum special pleadings for the Boer cause."

TWO CENTS

THE BOERS WOULD RAID

Would Retaliate If Delagoa Bay Is Closed.

ENGLAND WOULD HATE TO ACT.

London Standard Said Salisbury Would Be Reluctant to Bring Pressure Upon Portugal Except in Case of Urgent Necessity—Other War News.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—A correspondent of The Standard at Lourenço Marques said in part:

"If Delagoa bay is closed the Boers will retaliate by raiding Portuguese territory."

The Standard said:

"Lord Salisbury would be reluctant to bring pressure to bear upon Portugal except in a case of urgent necessity. Great Britain would prefer not to place herself in the invidious position of using force toward another petty country; and there is no temptation to raise any further international question."

The Standard said that no credit should be given to the rumor from Berlin of a secret Anglo-German-Portuguese treaty for the partition of the colonies of Portugal.

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—Regarding the statement by The Lokal Anzeiger that a secret Anglo-German-Portuguese treaty exists for the division of the Portuguese colonies in South Africa and Asia, a high official declared in part: "There is no objection to stating that the understanding had by Great Britain, Germany and Portugal refers only to Africa and leaves Asia out of the account."

LONDON, Dec. 29.—According to a dispatch received from Ladysmith, dated Wednesday, Dec. 20, the heat there was intense, being 104 degrees Fahrenheit in the shade. There were many cases of enteric fever in the town at that time, but not enough to cause alarm. On the other hand, reports from Boer sources on the continent assert that typhoid fever is epidemic in Ladysmith.

The Modder river correspondent of The Daily Chronicle gave an explanation of a sudden rifle fire inexplicably opened from the Boer trenches. He said:

"The Boers have wires stretched along the ground in front of the trenches and connected with lamps. If a wire be touched a lamp is extinguished, thus giving warning. One night a high wind extinguished a lamp, which resulted in a false alarm. The fire ceased when the Boers discovered that the alarm was false."

A correspondent of The Daily News at Frere camp announced that a tramway is being constructed from the railway to a hill commanding the Boer position; and that along this the British will convey heavy guns.

A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Pietermaritzburg, dated Saturday, Dec. 23, said in part:

"Thanks to the services of continental officers, the character of the campaign has changed. We are no longer fighting a foe who relies upon guerilla tactics, but we have to deal with what is rapidly becoming a disciplined army, enjoying the advantages of knowing the country and of selecting the scene of contest without the burdens of a cumbersome commissariat."

"The Boers have converted the hills near Colenso into fortresses of immense strength. Everywhere they have splendid trenches, many of them bomb proof. Tramway lines permit the shifting of guns with astonishing rapidity. The main positions are connected with the outlying positions by underground passages and the forts proper bristle with machine guns that command the approaches. Probably mines are laid."

"One hears less nowadays about Boer shells not bursting. Observers of the Colenso fight say the Boer shell fire was very effective. This is due largely to the fact that the distances are marked off with white paint."

CAPE TOWN, Dec. 29.—A man named Green, a former sergeant major of the British balloon department, is among the Boer prisoners captured at Magersfontein. He deserted from Aldershot in 1893. He said there were 23,000 Boers engaged the day of the battle. The Boer losses, he also asserted, were very heavy, the trenches being full of dead. Green further declared that if the attack had been pressed the Boers would have yielded.

CHIEFVELEY CAMP, Natal, Wednesday,

Dec. 24.—A heavy Boer gun on the whana hill fired steadily upon Ladysmith throughout the morning. Ladysmith did not respond.

The enemy having been again detected attempting to improve their trenches facing General Buller, the British heavy guns opened upon them and the Boers scampered back into the hills. The British patrols sighted the enemy in force on the extreme left. Nine Boers were killed in a skirmish that followed, and six Boer wagons were captured.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—The war office received a dispatch from Cape Town, dated Dec. 27, containing the following: "Metnien reports as follows: 'At 9:30 yesterday evening the Boers on the south side of Magersfontein opened a very heavy fire for some time. This morning the naval brigade is reconnoitering in a northeasterly direction. Lieutenant Masters has made an extended reconnaissance westward and northward of Einslein and reports all well. The farmers were glad to see our men. They were suffering from want of food. I have established a market here where I can purchase fresh milk and vegetables, selling to the farmers tea and other articles which they cannot otherwise purchase. Heavy rain fell last night.'"

Alexander Scott, a distinguished gentleman of the road, occupied a cell in the city jail last night at the request of Officer Mahony. Scott was slightly intoxicated when the officer got him and this morning he informed the mayor that he was a Scotchman and was born in the same town as Andrew Carnegie. He said he knew Andrew well and told several stories of their boyhood days, when they used to play marbles and

Are In Session at the Potters' Club This Afternoon

TO CONFIRM CLASSIFICATION

Expected an Answer From the English Manufacturers About Price Combination, but It Has Not Yet Been Received.

A number of eastern and local manufacturing potters held a meeting in the rooms of the Potters' club this afternoon to confirm the action taken at meetings held a few weeks ago, regarding the price list. Among those from out of town who were present at the meeting were: C. W. Franzheim, of the Wheeling Pottery company; Howard B. Moses, of the John B. Moses' Sons & Co. pottery, of Trenton; William Burgess, of the international pottery, Trenton, and James E. Norris, also of Trenton.

It was expected that an answer to the letter sent the English manufacturers by the American potters some time ago would be read at the meeting but it has not yet been received.

One important matter considered this afternoon was the confirmation of the recent classification of the trade lists. Price lists for jobbers, large and small department stores and the small trade have been made, the discount in each case varying.

A VERY CLOSE GAME

Pittsburg Had All They Could Do to Win.

LOCAL BASKET BALL PLAYERS

Put Up a Hot Game and Gave the Visitors a Hard Tussle—It Was a Good Contest and Was Anybody's Game Until the Finish.

The basket ball game at the Young Men's Christian Association between the local team and the all star aggregation of Pittsburg was one of the most interesting contests ever played at the local gym, and while the visitors won the game, yet they did not have anything to spare.

There was a good attendance and when the two clubs made their appearance it was at once noticed that the Pittsburg players were larger and heavier than the local players. In the first half it looked as though Pittsburg would have a walkover as it ended 11 to 4 in their favor.

In the second half the local boys took a decided brace, and the visitors had all they wanted to do to keep from losing. Marple played a professional game, and his work for East Liverpool helped the score considerably. Watkins and Chadwick as usual played splendid basket ball, and it is largely due to their work that Pittsburg didn't score more points. Wallace, as usual, played a fast game, and the passing of Herbert, Chadwick and Watkins puzzled even the visitors. For the visitors Becker, Haddock and Spelker were the stars. The scores were made as follows:

First half—Marple, 1, 2, 1; Haddock, 2, 2, 1, 2, 1, 1; Spelker, 2. Total, East Liverpool, 4; Pittsburg, 11.

Second half—Marple, 2, 2, 1; Wallace, 2; Herbert, 1; Haddock, 1, 2, 1. Total, East Liverpool, 8; Pittsburg, 4. Final score, Pittsburg, 15; East Liverpool, 12.

The lineup of the clubs was as follows:
LIVERPOOL. Position. PITTSBURG.
Marple.....r. f.....Haddock
Wallace.....l. f.....Spelker
Herbert.....c.....Becker
Watkins.....r. g.....Siebel
Chadwick.....l. g.....Poerstel
After the game a pleasant social was held.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

RECEIVING BIDS.

CONTRACT FOR EAST END STATION TO BE LET SOON.

Revival Services to Start--Brick Works Shut Down--News of the Suburb.

Work on the new East End station will be commenced in a very short time. Master Mechanic F. R. Martin, of the Cleveland and Pittsburg company was in the city yesterday and when asked about the East End station said that it would be frame and would be one story and a half high and would be what is known as a class B station or similar to the one at Cook's Ferry. The building will be 16x40 with a 6 foot projection. There will be a waiting room in one end of the station and the freight depot will be in the other end. It will cost in the neighborhood of $2,000. The bids are almost all in and the contracts will be let the first of the year. It will take about 60 days to complete the station.

REVIVAL MEETINGS.

They Will Start In Two East End Churches Next Sunday.

Next Sunday a series of revival meetings will commence in East End, which gives promise of being the best series of meetings of that character ever held in the suburb. All arrangements have been completed.

On Sunday morning at the Second Presbyterian church Evangelist H. H. Ryland, of Pittsburg, will commence a series of meetings, which will last 10 days. It is probable a watch meeting will be held in this church on Sunday evening, but this event has not been definitely settled upon.

Sunday evening will mark the opening of a revival service in the Second M. E. church that will continue as long as the interest lasts. At any rate, these meetings will continue throughout January and will be in direct charge of Rev. George W. Orcutt. Miss McDowell, of the Cleveland Deaconess' home, has been assigned by that department of the church to work in East End while the revival lasts. When these meetings end services of like character will be held in the Neville institute under the auspices of the Second M. E. church.

Personal.

Miss Ida Betts, who has been visiting at the home of friends in Canton for several days, has returned to East End.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira B. Bryan and children, of New Baltimore, Stark county, who have been guests at the home of Mrs. Bryan's sister, Mrs. S. R. Dixon, of St. George street, for the past week, left yesterday for Kensington.

Able to be Out.

Joseph Johnson, who has been confined to his home suffering with an injury to his head, caused by a brick falling on him while working about a kiln at the brickyard several days ago, is able to be out. The injury is still causing him much pain.

Among the Sick.

Mrs. John Michael, of Mulberry street, is very ill with quinsy.

Mrs. William Kinney, who has been very ill for several days, is improving and will be able to be out soon.

Received Their Pay.

The motormen yesterday received their last pay for this year. Many of the boys received extra money for making overtime in the capacity of conductors.

Will Elect Officers.

The Daughters of Liberty, at their meeting to be held on the evening of January 8, will elect a new corps of officers to act during the new year.

Plant Shut Down.

The plant of the East End Brick works has suspended operations indefinitely.

A NEW PASTOR.

WILL CURFMAN PLACED AT NESSLEY CHAPEL.

Bridge at Second Street to Be Finished Tomorrow--Heavy Business at Postoffice.

It has been decided to place William Curfman, of Liverpool, in charge of Nessley chapel, near Cumberland, until the next session of the annual Pittsburg conference of the Methodist Protestant church. The chapel has been without a pastor for several months, and it was decided at the ministerial meeting in Pittsburg recently to place the chapel in conference's charge for the present. The young man has been a student at Adrian college for some time, and this is his first charge.

M'CONNELL DOESN'T KNOW

McNally, However, Says His Work Will Be Done Very Soon.

Apparently Engineer McConnell is becoming disgusted with the way work on the extension is being done. Yesterday afternoon he was seen and said that he could not see where any headway was being made, and it looked as if he would be on the Virginia side for some weeks. The upper steam shovel is still doing some grading about the Gardner farm and McNally states it will require only a few more days until all the grading is finished.

Receipts Are Heavy.

The business handled at the Chester postoffice during the month just ending has been the heaviest of the year. The foreign mail has not been as heavy as it was during the summer, but this is accounted for by the fact that very few foreigners are now working on that side of the river.

Work Is Half Finished.

About one half of the county road bridge over the railroad extension is completed. It is said an extra force of workmen will be put to work on the bridge next Tuesday. The erecting of the new bridge at Second street will be finished by tomorrow evening.

An Official Here.

FOR PRESIDENT--Second Term.
WM. McKINLEY,
Of Ohio.

THE less valuable the advice the more
it's thrown around.

At present the South African war
seems to be chiefly a shell game

THE richest people may not be the happiest but everyone would like to prove it for himself.

It is reported that prisoners are so anxious to get out of Lisbon jail they plead guilty to get away quicker.

THE best monument to General Law-
ton's memory would be to provide suitably for his widow and family.

THE all important question with Quay
nowadays is whether the senate will give him or the plum tree the shake.

THE Alliance papers must have lost
all the circulation they had. At least they haven't said a word about it for a week.

A MAN buys 20 boxes of Wheeling
stogies, 100 to a box, and smokes them in rotation. He doesn't break into the twentieth box until the 19 other boxes are done--1900 tobies in all. When he opens the twentieth box he smokes the 1901st toby. There's the twentieth century puzzle in a puff.

THE PARDONING POWER.

The pardoning power of this state has been woefully abused and has degenerated into something simply farcical.
Criminals can laugh at conviction of heinous crimes if they but possess a PULL. This is a shameful fact and a disgrace to the commonwealth, and there exists stern necessity for obviating such shameless abuse of power. The mass of intelligent voters and citizens will not always patiently endure such iniquity.

HIT 'EM HARD.

Superintendent Healy, of the street car line, will have the warm thanks of all decent patrons if he makes a mark of the drunken toughs who have been terrorizing and insulting persons who find it necessary to ride to and from Wellsville. Motormen and conductors should be made deputies, with full power to act. Mayor Bough has expressed his willingness to work in concert and conjunction with the street railway officials, and this special class of lawbreakers will be the recipients of such SALTY sentences as will forever
break them of the habit of being too
FRESH in public. Hit 'em hard, gentlemen, and a suffering public will remember the same in your favor. Ruffianism and blackguardism must cease in this neck of woods.

THE HEADY BURGLAR

METHODS HE USES TO PUT THE POLICE ON THE WRONG SCENT.

Two Cases Where Coolness and Presence of Mind Were More Effective Than Fleetness of Foot in Evading the Officers of the Law.

"The crooks of Chicago don't believe in the running game in attempting to escape when caught at work," said a Chicago detective who was in Washington last week, "and I'm rather inclined to believe that they've got the sensible end of it. A man who starts to run away from one or more policemen, no matter whether he is swifter of foot than a deer, is bound to be collared nine times out of ten, whether he makes his dash at midday or in the middle of the night. He has to take the big chance of being headed off by other cops, and he has to take chances on the blind alleys that he's liable to run into. The crook, caught red handed, who keeps longest out of the clutches of the police, is the man who uses his head and who doesn't run. To illustrate:

"A few months ago a well known Chicago housebreaker, who has put in numerous hefty stretches at Joliet, decided to crack a crib on Prairie avenue, one of the swaggar houses of the town. He found that the whole family occupying the house were going to the theater on a certain night, and he figured on all of the servants remaining below stairs after the family's departure. He made a second story job of it, climbing up a porch, and he got in without a bit of trouble. It was really something easy, and the fellow simply got pockets full of jewelry. The thing was passing off beautifully when a maidservant walked in on him while he was ransacking the drawers in one of the ladies' boudoirs. She let out a scream and went a-kiting down the steps to where the menservants were. The crook sloped for the front door on the second floor and slipped down the same porch stanchion that he had used in climbing up. He was pretty quick, and he was a couple of doors away, on the sidewalk, before a lot of servants burst out of the house and began to yell for the police.

Now, if that crook had started to run there is no manner of doubt that he would have been headed off, and he would have stood more than an even chance of being shot into the bargain—if not by a cop, then by some citizen or other, for since the reign of footpad terror in Chicago a few years ago a majority of the citizens who stay out late at night pack guns around with them. Well, this thief didn't do any running stunt at all. There was an undertaker's wagon standing in front of a house about five doors away from the one he had robbed. No one was in the wagon. The crook saw his chance. He stepped aboard the wagon in a leisurely manner, gave a cluck to the horse and started to drive off at a lazy trot just as a couple of officers charged around the corner. He pulled the wagon up to talk to the cops.

"I guess somebody's been killed down in that house, the way they're yellin," he said to the cops.

"Have you seen any one running by here?" the policeman asked him.

"Well, just as I hopped aboard the wagon there was a duck chased out of that house and screwed down the other way," replied the thief, and the policemen took up their lope and started for the robbed house. The thief drove down Prairie avenue with all the leisure in life. He abandoned the wagon after going a mile, and took a down town car. I nailed him a couple of months later when he was drunk, on suspicion of having a hand in a certain job, and he was boastful enough to own up to it and to tell me how he'd got away on the occasion I've told you about.

"Still more recently there was another well known Chicago second story man caught in the act of going through a house on one of the prominent boulevards. The butler came in on him, and he punched the butler a swift one and backheeled him. Then he walked swiftly out of the house and down the steps, a number of the other servants meantime appearing at the basement door and howling. Down in the next block a big gang of all night men were engaged in putting in new sewer pipes. The crook didn't take up any sprint, but he just made for the scene of the sewer pipe operations at a good walking clip. He was got up pretty roughly, and he jumped into the first ditch he came to, after having caught up a pick that was lying on the brink, and started in to work.

"There was a Swede in the pit there with him, but the Swede had the proper Scandinavian stolidity, and he didn't pay any attention to his new digging companion. The crook piled his pick there for an hour, while cops plowed around all over the street looking for the robber. When the excitement had all died down, he dropped his pick and stole silently away. There was rum in this one's head, too, when one of my sleuth pals got him, and he told chestily of the neat way he had given the cops the slip. So many of the Chicago crooks are adopting similar tactics nowadays that it is rare for a Chicago policeman to get a run for his money, in the half literal sense."—Washington Star.

James Whitcomb Riley's Joke.
James Whitcomb Riley and Nye were a peculiar pair. They were everlastingly playing practical jokes.

I remember when we were riding together in the smoking compartment between Columbus and Cincinnati. Mr. Nye was a great smoker, and Mr. Riley did not dislike tobacco. An old farmer came over to Mr. Nye and said:

"Are you Mr. Riley? I heard you was on the train."

"No, I'm Mr. Riley. He is over there."

"I know him," and I would like to speak to him."

"That's all right, yes. But he is deaf and doesn't want to speak loud."

So the farmer went over to him and said in a loud voice:

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"Er—what?"

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"What did you say?"

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"Riley, yes."

"I knew your father."

"No bother."

"I knew your father."

"What?"

"I knew your father."

"Oh, so did I!"

And in a few moments the farmer heard him talking in an ordinary tone of voice.—Saturday Evening Post.

Two Ladies of Fashion Meet.

A family living in a North Side flat welcomed a new housemaid last week. The girl had just come from Michigan, and her appearance was prepossessing. Soon after her advent it was discovered that she was inclined to treat the family with a patronizing air.

"Mary, you must do better, or I shall have to find some one to take your place," the mistress remarked the other morning.

"I don't allow any one to speak to me that way," replied Mary, with a toss of her head. "I'm just as good as you are, and I want you to know it."

Mary flounced out of the room and returned in two minutes with the weekly paper from her town. Among the social items was the following:

"Miss Mary Hanson has gone to Chicago to spend the winter. Miss Hanson is an acknowledged belle in the leading circles of Sawdust Creek."

Mary waited until her employer had had time to read the "personal," and then she said with withering scorn:

"As I have always been accustomed to going with the best in my town and as I don't believe you ever have your name on the society page of the Sunday papers I guess I can't afford to stay with you."

The North Side woman declared the domestic incident closed.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

English Officers Wear Armor.
Many officers of the British army are wearers of armor. As a general rule the mail is inclosed in a leather casing, which is sewed inside the tunic, so as to be invisible unless the garment is picked to pieces. And the same with helmets—a similar device is fixed in the lining, so as to give additional protection in case of need. Some officers are not above wearing mail vests underneath their tunics and perfectly oblivious of their comrades, who, although they may scoff in times of peace, would only be too glad to don one themselves when in the middle of hostilities. The majority of the maker's customers are officers, because the suits are very expensive, costing about 10 guineas each.—Regiment.

A Unique Notice.
The following is a copy of a unique notice affixed to the church door at Whitechurch, London: "Missing, last Sunday, some families from church. Stolen, several hours from the Lord's day, by a number of people of different ages, dressed in their Sunday clothes."

WHY SHE RESIGNED.

The Member of a Woman's Club Founded the Two Popes.

"For the last year or so my wife has been ambitious to shine as a literary light," said Smith, with a chuckle. "I don't know how many clubs she joined, but if there were any that she did not belong to it was because she had never heard of them."

"The other night while I was reading my paper she interrupted me with a request for light about something that I did not catch except the word pope."

"Well," said I, looking over my paper.

"I want to know about him," she continued. "I must read a paper concerning him at our next literary meeting, and I do not know a single thing about him. Who is he?"

"Oh, of course!" she answered. "How stupid of me! I can read all about him in the encyclopedia."

"I resumed my reading and thought that ended it, but it didn't. The other night when I returned home I found my wife in tears, and before I had time to inquire what the matter was I was called to account in 17 different kinds of keys."

"Well, when the storm was over I learned the truth. It was the poet Pope and not the pope of Rome that she was expected to treat upon, and when she rose and read a paper on the pope it started a row that did not end with adjournment."

"But, seeing that she has resigned from all the clubs and that the children once more have a chance to get acquainted with their mother, I do not look upon it as a calamity."—Detroit Free Press.

Unique Way of Identification.

The Saunterer happened to be in a prominent bank, where he saw an identification effected in the most unique way yet heard of. A young railroad man came hurrying in with a check to cash. He was not known in the bank except by one man, and he, of course, was out.

"Well, here's my railroad pass," said he, producing the transportation card made out in his name. "Will this do?"

The cashier took it and compared the indorsement on the back with the writing on the pass.

"That won't do you any good," said the owner. "All our passes are made out before we get them."

"I guess it's all right," said the cashier hesitatingly. "Haven't you something else?"

"Well," was the answer after a moment's thought. "I've got an itemized dentist's bill in my pocket, and you can compare it with the fillings in my teeth," and he displayed the latter in a broad grin, which secured for him the money.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Made His Bed.

On returning from the barn early one morning the old man found his wife in tears.

"Wha'cher cryin about, Melissy?" he inquired.

"'Nother—one—uv our darters—was stole las' night," she sobbed.

"The redheaded un?" he asked ironically.

"Yes—pore Mag—she was the best gal—"

"Bob Seattles?"

"Uv course. Hasn't been no other feller waitin on her. Ain't you goin to pursue after 'em an arrest 'im?"

"Uv course not," he replied sternly. "I'm not under obligations to help Bob Seattles out uv no difficulty. Let him go ahead and work out his sentence, same's I've been a-doin fur the las' 40 year."—New York Truth.

A "Knock-turn."
When J. A. MacNeill Whistler lived in Chelsea, his peculiarities soon made him a familiar figure even among the bargemen, who got to know him as the artist of their beloved Thames. One afternoon, while sauntering along the embankment, Whistler was confronted by a man who had one eye most effectively blackened. The artist stopped and inquired, "What's the matter, my good fellow?" The man touched his hat. "Oh, nothing, sir—merely a knock-turn in blue and green!"—San Francisco Wave.

UNION LABELS.

It should be a deep-rooted principle of all union workmen and union sympathizers, and particularly those members of the different organizations of East Liverpool, to buy nothing but Union Label goods, in preference to all others. And why not? If we ask fair wages for our labor, why should we buy goods made at unfair wages by others?

The Union Label in every industry is a guarantee of fair wages, decent working hours and union labor employed.

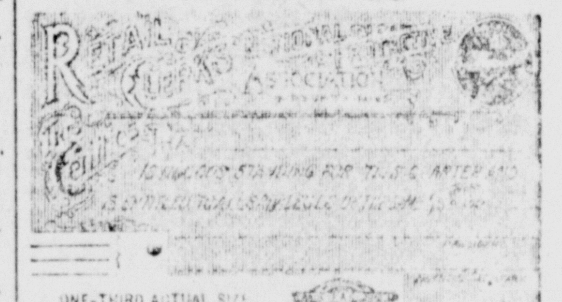

UNION PAPERS.

All Union papers of East Liverpool are shown to the various craft and unions of the city by the printing of the above Union Labels at the head of their columns.

PATRONIZE UNION CLERKS.

Members of the U. S. N. P. & C. can show this card to the various unions making their purchases through the U. S. N. P. & C.

UNION MADE BOOTS AND SHOES.

The Boot and Shoe Workers' union is the national head of the trade, and is a new combination of all the branches of boot and shoe workers. The above trade-mark when found on the sole or lining of a boot or shoe, is a guarantee that the same is made by union labor. Look for the above design stamped on the sole of every pair of boots or shoes you buy.

CUSTOM TAILORS' LABEL.

The Journeymen Tailor's Label is to be found in the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the under side of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants. It is printed in black ink on white linen.

UNION MADE CLOTHES.

You will find the linen label attached by machine stitching to the inside breast pocket of the coat, on the inside of the buckle strap of the vest, and on the waistband lining of the pants.

BICYCLE LABEL.

"Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you." You will endorse the "Golden Rule" by buying and riding bicycles bearing this label. The colors are as follows: The Union shield is in red, white and blue, on a background of pea green, bordered by gold.

The Label will be placed on the upper front side of the seat that receives the seat post.

UNION BREAD AND CRACKERS.

This is a full size facsimile of the Label of the Bakers' and Confectioners' union. It is printed on fine white paper and is pasted on each loaf of union-made bread. It is an evidence that the bread is made under fair and wholesome conditions, and in clean and healthy bakeries. Following is the confectioners' and cracker label:

PELTING THE EARTH.

A CONSTANT SHOWER OF METEORS INTO OUR ATMOSPHERE.

Some of the Larger Ones Which Reached the Earth Unconsumed. Fragment of a Comet's Tail—The Intense Cold of Space Felt by Man.

The atmosphere forms an armor which is almost impenetrable to the meteors that are constantly pelting the earth. About 2,000 of these wanderers in space hit our atmosphere every 24 hours. Most of the meteors are small. They come rushing through space, strike the atmosphere, and the friction against the molecules of air heats them to a white heat and sets them ablaze. Sometimes, part of one may reach the earth; but, as a rule, they are consumed, and the dust alone, cosmic dust, drops upon the surface.

One of the earliest known meteors fell in 204 B. C. in Phrygia, where for a long time it was worshiped. It was carried to Rome and was supposed to be a messenger from the gods. Livy describes a shower of meteoric stones. The people were greatly alarmed, and the senators were demoralized and declared a nine days' festival to propitiate the gods. There is at Mecca a meteorite which fell in 600 A. D. and is still worshiped by the faithful.

In Chinese literature there is mention of meteors which fell in 644 B. C. The oldest known meteorite which was seen to fall is now on exhibition at Ensisheim, Alsace, Germany. In 1492 it came crashing down through the air with a roar that prostrated the peasantry with fright. It buried itself deeply in the earth. It weighed 260 pounds and hangs today in the parish church.

The Chupaderos meteorite, which weighed 25 tons, fell in Chihuahua, Mexico. The largest meteorite known is the Peary stone, which weighs approximately 100 tons. The stone of Canon Diable weighs at least ten tons and exploded high in air, the pieces being found all over the surrounding country. In Italy several instances are known of the loss of life from meteorites. A peasant was sitting in his cabin and was killed by an iron mass that crashed through the roof. The act was regarded as a visitation of divine anger.

The city of Milan is perhaps the only one that has been struck by a meteorite. A meteorite of several pounds' weight fell in the heart of that city in the year 1690, on the authority of Paolo Maria Tezzayo, and struck a Franciscan monk.

More remarkable are the falls at sea. That a ship should be struck would seem an extraordinary chance, yet a Swedish ship was so struck, the stone killing two of the crew. On Dec. 1, 1896, the ship Walkamming was sailing from New York to Bremen when her officers noticed a brilliant meteor that appeared to be bearing down on the vessel from southeast to northwest. It passed with a loud roar and hissing sound and plunged into the sea ahead of the ship. That it was a meteor of large size was evident, for a few minutes later the ship was struck by a tidal wave.

Even more remarkable was the experience of the British ship Cawdor, which reached San Francisco Nov. 20, 1897. During a severe storm a large and brilliant meteor was observed rushing down upon the ship, and with a roar and filling the air with fumes of sulphur it passed between the masts of the ship and fell into the sea not 50 feet from the rail.

One of the greatest curiosities possessed by man today is a supposed fragment of a comet in Mazapil, Mexico. The fragment is believed to be a part of the tail of Biela's comet. In 1846 something happened in space. A wreck occurred. Biela's comet may have collided with another comet. In any case, the comet divided, and many living observers remember seeing the two parts gradually separating.

Some fatality pursued one part of the comet, and it met its fate in infinite space, literally went to pieces and became a wreck upon the shoreless sea of space. Astronomers predicted that if the comet itself did not appear in 1872 its wreckage would become visible as shooting stars, and this prediction was realized apparently, as on Nov. 27, 1872, there burst from the heavens a cloud of shooting stars. During the display one piece dropped upon the earth and was secured at Mazapil, Mexico, and was declared to be a part of the great comet.

The average meteorite immediately

after its fall is intensely hot, but at least one, which was handled immediately after falling, still held the intense cold of space. A few men can say that they have experienced this. A meteorite exploded above Dhurmsala, Kangra and Punjab, India, in 1890, and a section was picked up immediately by some natives, who dropped it with expressions of pain. The explosion had exposed the interior of the meteor, which had been chilled by the intense cold of space and was so cold that its effect was like a burn. This fragment is now to be seen in the Field museum. Of it Dr. Farington, the curator, said, "This is perhaps the only instance known where the cold of space has become perceptible to human senses."—New York Sun.

WOMEN OPPOSE WOMEN.

The State of Affairs Said to Exist in the Government Service.

"Why is it that women are practically debarred from receiving promotions to the higher places in the government service?" asked a government clerk of a quarter of a century's experience. The question was put to several ladies in the treasury department. Before any one of them had time to reply the questioner proceeded to answer his own interrogatory.

"It is because they are held back by members of their own sex," he said. "Some time ago a lady in one division I know of was so favorably regarded that she would have been made chief of that division, but as soon as her prospects became known her fellow clerks of the same sex became indignant and united in a protest. They declared that they could never work under her; that they would a thousand times rather have a man than a woman to 'boss' them. They wouldn't allow her to 'lord it over them.'"

"That is only a sample of many cases. Women can be depended upon to antagonize women under such circumstances. Not only did they do so in the case I have cited, but they actually gave the marble heart and the icy hand to this woman after they defeated her prospects of a promotion. I am satisfied that one of the most influential obstacles to women in their effort to secure equal recognition with men comes from their own sex."

The man who asked and answered the question then moved off before his audience of lady clerks had an opportunity to reply to his assertions.—Washington Star.

The Laugh on the General.

The late General Clinton B. Fisk was once addressing a Sunday school convention. One of the speakers had reminded the children that it was Washington's birthday.

"Children," said General Fisk, "you all know that Washington was a general. Perhaps you know that I am also a general. Now, can any one tell what was the difference between General Washington and myself?"

"I know, sir," replied a small boy in the back part of the room.

"Well, what was the difference?" said General Fisk, smiling at the lad's eagerness.

"George Washington couldn't tell a lie, sir!" cried the boy in exultant tones. Shouts of laughter followed, in which the general joined heartily.—Detroit News.

A Candle Trick.

Let a candle burn until it has a good long snuff; then blow it out with a sudden puff. A bright wreath of white smoke will curl up from the hot wick. Now, if a flame be applied to this smoke, even at a distance of two or three inches from the candle, the flame will run down the smoke and rekindle the wick in a very fantastic manner. To perform this ceremony nicely there must be no draft or "banging" doors while the mystic spell is rising.

Two Towers.

Students of architecture may have often wondered why the two towers of Notre Dame at Paris were not of the same size. It appears that when the cathedral was built it was the cathedral of a suffragan bishop, who was not entitled to two towers of equal height, and for centuries the bishop of Paris was suffragan to the bishop of Sens.

WOOLGROWERS NEED NOT FLAR.

Asserted Argentine Convention Won't Injure Their Interests.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—An official statement of facts respecting the Argentine convention was given out for public information and to correct misapprehensions in respect to the effect of the treaty on the wool interest. It said in part:

The Argentine government demanded reciprocal concessions on the few articles she sends to this market. Among these was wool, and the American woolgrowers have expressed fears that this would prove injurious to the domestic interest.

The total import of wool in United States for 1899 from all countries was 76,735,000 pounds. Of this from the Argentine came only 7,957,000 pounds, which is a very small portion of our aggregate importations. It appears that our woolen factories require, notwithstanding high duties, a certain amount of foreign wool to supplement the domestic product. There is no proposal for any reduction of wool duties in favor of any other country.

It is evident that the proposed reduction for Argentine wools alone can have no effect on our market prices. The majority of the wool is of the coarsest class (for carpets, etc.), which is not at all or but little supplied by this country. If other countries imposed the same high duties with ourselves upon raw wools imported for manufacture this reduction of duty would turn the tide of wool supply to the United States. But other nations have adopted the policy of free admission of wool. Consequently, the Argentine wool seeks the European free markets, France, Germany, Belgium, Great Britain, Italy, etc., and will continue to do so.

CONSUL MACRUM

IS NOT COMING HOME BY WAY OF ENGLAND.

Will Arrive in New York About January 29—Tayler Has No News.

Consul Macrum is not coming home by way of England. The steamer on which he is sailing, is one of a German line, from Lorenzo Marques, Delagoa bay, to Naples and thence direct to New York. He is due in New York about January 29.

The report that Congressman Tayler had received an explanatory letter from Macrum is untrue. He has not received any communication from the consul since war began.

A London dispatch says there is much interest there in Macrum's return, and adds: "Consul Macrum lived very modestly in Pretoria and was very intimate with Mr. Reitz, secretary of state of the Transvaal. Reitz may have sent by Macrum special pleadings for the Boer cause."
